

books

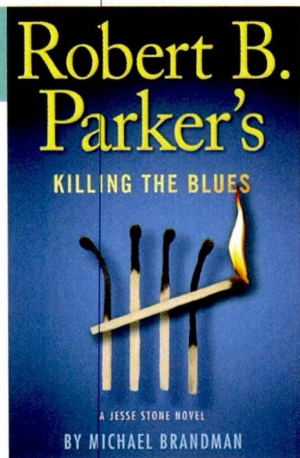

Blood Relative
David Thomas
Quercus, R100

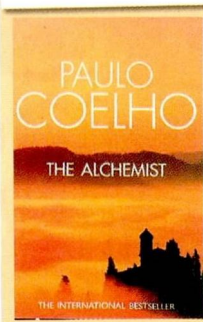

After an ordinary day at the office, Peter Crookham comes home to find a bloodbath! His brother has been stabbed to death, and his wife Mariana is covered in blood – and holding the murder weapon. Is she really a killer? While his wife awaits her fate in a mental institution, Peter digs up her past in East-Germany to find out who she really is... A truly gripping thriller. ★★★★★ @SonRaath

Parker's Killing The Blues
Michael Brandman
Quercus, R255

Parker may have died at his writing desk in 2010, but Jesse Stone lives on thanks to author Michael Brandman. Jesse, who is chief of police, is once again faced with the problems that come with tourist season. An investigation into a car thief turns into a murder case, and things take a turn for the worst! Throw in a new love, a mystery figure from his past, and the hardest case of Jesse's his career, and you've got a page-turner! ★★★★★ @SonRaath

MY FAVOURITE BOOK

Kgomotso Christopher
The Alchemist
Paulo Coelho
Kalahari.com, R166
"Very simply written and profound about life! I also went through an existential moment where I wondered about my purpose in life!"

1 Bad Blood
Amanda Coetzee
Macmillan, R175
Badger is a former member of a group of Irish travellers. When he turns his back on them to join the police force, he's determined never to deal with them again. Except he'll soon need their help...
2 John Grisham
Calico Joe
Hodder and Stoughton, R125
When Paul's dying father

heat's top three books of the week!
enters his life, he needs to decide whether he wants to revisit abandoned memories.
3 Steve Jobs:
American Genius
Amanda Ziller
Collins, R60
Where would we be without Steve Jobs? This book will make you very aware of how much he changed the world!